First Reading November 18th, 2023

Current: Page 10 Rule 2. All judges must be current NDRA members, who have attended an NDRA or professional judging clinic once every two years. Individuals may appeal to the board for extenuating circumstances. There are no state residency requirements for judges. The NDRA board has the right to approve a judge not on the list to judge an approved rodeo, with the provision that the person takes a clinic before being approved for the next rodeo season. If the person fails to comply, he will not be approved to judge until filling the appropriate requirements as set forth by the board.

Proposed: All judges must be current NDRA members, who have attended an NDRA or NDRA approved professional judging clinic, once every two years. ~~Individuals may appeal to the board for extenuating circumstances.~~ There are no state residency requirements for judges. ~~The NDRA board has the right to approve a judge not on the list to judge an approved rodeo, with the provision that the person takes a clinic before being approved for the next rodeo season. If the person fails to comply, he will not be approved to judge until filling the appropriate requirements as set forth by the board.~~ Clinic format and judging requirements will be set by judging director each year clinic is provided, and presented to the NDRA board of directors for approval. After requirements are met, a list of the recommended judges will be presented to the Board for approval.

Current: Page 10 Rule 3. Rodeo committees may select both NDRA judges for their rodeo providing this is done 30 days prior to the rodeo dates. If the selection is not done by this time, the judges for an NDRA rodeo will be selected by the NDRA judging committee.

Page 10 Rule 4. The NDRA judging committee may hire approved judges and pay a minimum of $200.00 per performance for each rodeo. The local committee will be required to reimburse the association for these judging fees.
